

* The child's family has encouraging ways of explaining the ADHD diagnosis	* The child's immediate circle gets educated about ADHD from reliable sources	* The child has parents who learn and accept best practices for the treatment of ADHD	* The child takes a medication that is effective in reducing ADHD symptoms
* The family supports the child with beneficial routines and habits	* The child is surrounded by people who understand and love him or her	* The child's school provides appropriate accommodations without shaming	* The child accepts and values him or herself so there is no need to mask